CHOCOLATE FROM THE FOREST

Look into her eyes. In the ancient language her name means – a golden light, glow and power. Truly – look into the eyes of all the maidens of light from the clean Northern forests. You will see the Northern Lights, persistence and inspiration reflected there. They are real. Lively, wild, genuine, unpretentious. Beautiful in their truthfulness. They come from eternally green forests where the potent, sweet and sour berries grow. They know when and where to collect them, how to prepare and present them. When summer comes, the city grows empty, the opera and cafes fall silent whilst the forests, birds, the sea and the marshes fill with sound. They too are in the forest, in the very centre, picking berries, perhaps still wearing dancing shoes and diamond earrings. Hair entangled with pinecones and linden blossoms. Perhaps, they are magical. Their light doesn't lie.

Truffles made from the best Belgian chocolate. Their unique feature hides in the Northern forest berries. Grown and gathered in deep forests, they are then freeze dried. They are enriched by sophisticated worldly flavours and created with berry, nut, fruit and herb fillings. Cooked and prepared in our own factory, they are filled and decorated by hand. Enhanced by berry bits, chocolate curls and coloured powders. These are forest feelings – light plays, colours, smells, textures, rustlings. Bright, sweet and sour, refreshing, dizzying – they are fine little gems gathered and nurtured by the Northern maidens. Found in the deepest thickets and nature's secret crevices. The Northern maidens take the berry's glowing tone, the wild wind of freedom and mix together nature's similarities and opposites, contradictions and enchanting harmonies
